Computer Corner

Basic Jargon

By Wanda Woods, Computer Instructor, Green Valley Ranch Metropolitan District

I'm asked all the time about the meaning of different terminology or jargon that is used out there when talking about computers. So for the first "Get Off Your Buns" computer article, I thought I would start with a few of the basics. I bet you will be surprised at some of the definitions. After you read them, you will probably say...."is that all that is?"

Hardware –

any parts of the computer that you can touch (the hard parts), for example the monitor, keyboard, mouse, speakers, all the components on the inside, etc.

Software –

are the programs or applications (the terms "software", "programs" and "applications" are used interchangeably) that will help you do something like write a letter (Microsoft Word), browse the Internet (Internet Explorer), edit a photo (Photoshop), create a spreadsheet (Excel), do a presentation (PowerPoint), or create a database (Access). The names of some of the software are in parenthesis.

Regarding your smart phone, when you hear folks ask..."is there an app for that", they are referring to software. When an "app" is installed on your phone, you are installing software. The term "app" is short for application.

Operating System –

the software which helps the computer do something. It's the software that has to be on your computer, before any other software can be there. It's the "liaison" for the computer. It helps the hardware and software work together. For example, when you double click on an "icon" by using the mouse, or if you tap on an "icon" on a touch screen or monitor, the operating system knows that you used the mouse (hardware) to click or tapped on the icon (software) to open it. An icon is a graphic image, a small picture or object that represents a file, program, web page, or command.

Most popular operating systems for a PC are Windows XP, Windows Vista, or Windows 7 and 8 (Microsoft products), and for a Mac it's OS X (pronounced OS 10) and iOS (Apple products). The OS stands for "operating system". Bill Gates is the co-founder of Microsoft and the late Steve Job is co-founder of Apple, Inc.

PC stands for personal computer which is made by manufacturers such as Dell, Gateway, Acer, and Hewlett Packard (HP). Mac (short for Macintosh) is also a personal computer made by Apple. Apple is also the brain child behind all the popular "i" products such as ipod, ipad, iphone, and itunes.

Download vs. Upload –

Download is anytime you transfer a file from the Internet or the Cloud (we'll talk about the Cloud next article) to the computer. Upload is the opposite. It's when you transfer a file from the computer to the Internet or the Cloud. A file is any bit of information or picture that you save to the computer.

You can learn more by taking the Basic Computer Class that is offered at the Green Valley Ranch Metropolitan District, along with other classes such as Windows 7, the Internet and Email, plus a few more. There are special rates for participants 55+. Visit the website www.gvrmetrodistrict.com or contact La Vetta Murray at 303-307-3243 to register or questions.

Victimizing Older Adults

Watch out for traveling criminals this time of year.

As the weather gets warmer criminals travel around to victimize older adults. These criminals specialize in financial exploitation scams against senior citizens.

Some traveling scams and how to avoid them:

Utility Impostor Scams: People knock on your door and say they are from the water, electric, or cable company. They then try to convince you to accompany them to your basement or backyard. They may say it is against company policy for them to enter your basement unaccompanied. Once in your basement or backyard they may turn knobs and switches with the sole purpose of keeping you occupied. Meanwhile, an unseen accomplice searches your home for valuables.

How to avoid being a victim: Legitimate company employees will wear a uniform and badge but don't be fooled because the person is wearing a badge. Many impostors make the badges themselves. Ask to examine the ID. Don't let them in your house and don't let them lure you out of yours. You can ask them to wait outside your locked front door while you call the company to verify who they are. Impostors usually won't hang around while you research them. Especially verify if you do not have a standing appointment with the company.

Driveway sealing or home repair scams: One of two people in a vehicle offer to seal your driveway, fix your roof or do other repairs at an unusually low price. Typically, they offer an even cheaper price if you pay with cash. The job is poorly done if anything at all is done. After the "work" is completed they asked for more money than originally set. If the victim refused to pay the higher price they get loud and intimidating. If you pay them cash they now know you have cash in the house and probably watched where in the house you went to get it. Sometimes they make a return visit with young children or family along. The children will ask for a drink or to use the bathroom. Many children have been taught how to search your home for cash, jewelry or valuables or to keep you occupied while someone else in the group does this.

How to avoid being a victim: Never keep large amounts of cash in your house. If someone is offering a deal that is too good to be true it probably is. Don't employ or accept services from anyone who knocks on your door or comes around soliciting you. Rely on local workers with a reputation in the community. Check with a friend or neighbor who you trust before doing the work. Things to consider: Do they have references? Are they in the phone book? Do they have a local address that you can verify? Are they registered with the city and paying taxes?
